Preserving Lighthouses, Endangered Beacons of Maritime Tradition

Lauren B.
Sickles-Taves

Professor of Historic Preservation,
Eastern Michigan University

3 p.m. Tuesday April 6

doors open at 2:15 p.m.
seating limited to 40 people

Lighthouses have long guided mariners through troubled waters, but now these architectural gems are becoming obsolete. They can only continue to shine through local preservation efforts. Dr. Sickles-Taves discusses her work in preserving the nation's historic lighthouses through a fascinating slide presentation.

Mark your calendars!
All are invited to celebrate Detroit
Observatory's
sesquicentennial on Thursday June 17th at 4:30 p.m. at an outdoor ceremony. Tours of the Observatory will follow.

Lecture Series

Each month the Observatory hosts faculty and other professionals speaking on topics that heighten our understanding of 19th-century science, technology and culture. Lectures are free and open to the public. They are held in the Observatory Library (limit 40 people).
